

Health Occupations Students of America, or HOSA, is an opportunity for pre-medicine students to explore different aspects of the medical world. Through health science related activities including presentations, games, certifications and competitions, HOSA members can begin delving into the various of specialty related tasks that can help them further themselves in the field of medicine. This year, the club plans on expanding to more than just competition related activities in order to truly display the variety of fields and paths related to medicine that students can pursue.
